

MARKETPLACE

Digital crisis management solutions

Having not even left Covid-19 behind, the next crisis has already reached us. The Russian war on Ukraine as well as topics associated with it, for example (gas) supply shortages or cyber risks, might as well lead to the demand to be best equipped with tools to prepare for or respond to possible crisis scenarios.

Responsible crisis managers are continuously addressing the question of what digital crisis management solutions are available on the market and are interested in the Status Quo. For this reason, ASW would like to offer the marketplace as a platform to approach this question and present these service providers.

Get an overview of different products and learn how you can digitize your company's crisis team work.
